

Managing multiple employment centers, competing state and federal statutes, and a diverse employee base?

Put USLAW to work.

Employment counsel and human resource executives face an alphabet soup of complexities today. From RIFs and WARN to ADA, FMLA, OWBPA and beyond, competing federal statutes as well as state and local laws have made employment law a legal minefield for employers.

USLAW's team spread out across the country in multiple jurisdictions and armed with decades of experience synthesizing, sorting through and solving employment issues, helping in-house employment counsel and HR execs stay on top of legal changes, within compliance, and ahead of employee issues. And when a courtroom challenge does emerge, clients know our cross country team has tried cases in hundreds of jurisdictions and venues.

From preventative employee policies and handbooks to complex employment litigation, let USLAW go to work for you.
