

Making or distributing products — from the simple to the complex — across the country and around the world?

USLAW knows products liability from A to Z.

Selling even the simplest products has become exceedingly complex. Legal risks abound — from individual injuries to class action lawsuits.

USLAW attorneys regularly coordinate nationwide litigation and discovery and are experienced in developing efficient computer-based litigation support systems for tort and product litigation. From early resolution of claims and cases, coordination with related litigation, media relations, supervision of local counsel, retention of expert witnesses, factual investigation, settlement negotiations, to trial and appeal, USLAW works with clients every step of the way.

Whether you make or distribute consumer or industrial products nationally or around the globe, USLAW can help.
